The Lewiston Journal says that Lizzie Cutler of Portland was dangerously poisoned Friday by putting colored white pencil in her mouth. Such pencils should be discarded.

A well to be former named William Wescott, living at Gorham, while at work about two weeks ago on his field, was suddenly taken with strange and painful pains in the region of his liver which soon after began to swell distending his stomach to an alarming degree. Wednesday Mr. Wescott died in horrible agony. A post mortem examination the most and liver was taken out and found to weigh twelve pounds, or about four times as much as the liver of a person of normal state.

Wm. Berry of Norway died very suddenly Wednesday. Deceased was in his usual health and was driving over a smooth road, his team ran away, throwing him out, causing his death. He was a native of Greenwood and leaves a wife and children.

Charles H. Perry who was killed in the blow up of the powder mill at Acton Mass Nov. 2d, belonged in Brownfield where his parents reside. Perry was a young man about thirty years of age, and unmarried. After the explosion he was found on the side of a hill near by, at a distance of about seventy-five feet from where he was at work. Every shred of his clothing, with the exception of almost all portion of his rubber boots, which still clung to his feet was torn from him by the force of the powder, and his body was badly black and mutilated. Both of his legs were broken, the right one being in the worst situation; his two arms were in the same condition. About half of his skull was blown off and his brains scattered. After being found he was carried into a neighboring house on the opposite side of the road where coroner Hamlin of Bethel with the assistance of Dr. Bisbee of Bethel held an inquest.

SCIENCE

The value of drawing in the education of students of surgery was strongly insisted on by Mr. Arthur Henslow in his autumn inaugural address to the medical school attached to the Mid Essex Hospital in London. Referring to his remarks, a correspondent of the London Times mentions a curious corroborative fact in the authority of the Prince Imperial of France. The Prince, when a child, fell out of a window and broke his leg. Napoleon the Third was then at the height of his power, and his son was treated by the most eminent surgeons in France. Dr. Nelaton, who was called in, was so much struck by the beauty of the drawings which the Prince had made of his own accident that he sent for the boy's tutor and asked him if he had taught him drawing. The tutor replied that he had not, but that the Prince had a natural talent for it. Dr. Nelaton then said that he was sorry for it, as he had hoped that the Prince would have become a surgeon, and that he would have been a great one.

The Trees. The recent discovery of an immense grove of trees in California, whose dimensions are almost incredible, will be visited by many persons during the present season. Those who have seen the Mammoth Trees of Calaveras County, and the Big Trees of Mariposa, will find the new discovery surpassing both in the size of the trees. The Calaveras trees, though very large, are not remarkable for their height, while the Mariposa trees, though very tall, are not of great diameter. The trees of the new grove, which is in Tulare County, are both large and tall, and are said to be the largest trees in the world. The grove is situated in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, about 7,000 feet above the level of the sea, and is reached by a trail from the valley below. The trees are of the species known as the redwood, and are of a very beautiful appearance. The bark is of a deep red color, and the foliage is of a dark green. The trees are very straight, and have no branches for a great distance from the ground. The grove is said to contain about 1,000 trees, and is a very interesting sight to visit.

Lake Seal Fishery. The Lake Seal Fishery Company, which has been operating on Lake Seal during the past summer, is now engaged in drilling and dredging the lake. The machinery used is of the most improved kind, and is said to be very effective. The company has already taken out a large quantity of fish, and expects to take out a much larger quantity before the season is over. The fish are principally trout and salmon, and are said to be of very fine quality. The company has also been engaged in stocking the lake with young fish, and has put in about 10,000 trout and salmon. The company is composed of gentlemen from Boston and Portland, and is said to be doing a very profitable business.

THINGS TO BE REMEDIED

BY DOCTOR CRANK, OF RHODE ISLAND

I wish to write in a very plain way of things that need to be remedied or reformed.

I. Bad Laws. In some parts of the country the public laws are so bad that they do more harm than good. In some states, for instance, I do not know of a single law that is not a bad law. One of the worst laws is the one which allows people to work on their farms on the Sabbath day. But there are other laws which are bad, and which ought to be changed. For instance, the laws which allow people to sell liquor to drink on the premises where it is sold. These laws are very bad, and ought to be changed. The laws which allow people to sell liquor to drink on the premises where it is sold are very bad, and ought to be changed. The laws which allow people to sell liquor to drink on the premises where it is sold are very bad, and ought to be changed.

II. Bad Habits. Some parts of the country are full of bad habits. For instance, in some parts of the country people are in the habit of chewing tobacco. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed. In some parts of the country people are in the habit of smoking cigars. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed. In some parts of the country people are in the habit of drinking liquor. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed. In some parts of the country people are in the habit of swearing. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed. In some parts of the country people are in the habit of gambling. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed. In some parts of the country people are in the habit of lying. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed. In some parts of the country people are in the habit of stealing. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed. In some parts of the country people are in the habit of murdering. This is a very bad habit, and ought to be changed.

III. Bad Houses. We have too many such houses as they are, except that they are not of marble and the very rough style of the winter, and still more dreary with the cold snow beating upon them in summer. It does not seem as if there could be much done to the inside of these walls.

As to the outside, it is a great mistake to put a house into such a style of architecture as to take away from it the appearance of comfort. The house should be built in such a manner as to look as if it were made to live in. It should not look as if it were made to be looked at. It should look as if it were made to be lived in. It should look as if it were made to be a home. It should look as if it were made to be a place where people could live and be happy. It should look as if it were made to be a place where people could live and be happy. It should look as if it were made to be a place where people could live and be happy.

IV. Cookery. An able temperance lecture was delivered some years since, by one of the ablest scholars in the land, in which bad bread was declared to be one of the prime causes of drunkenness. If it is true that the physical condition induced by this cause leads to a hankering after stimulants, I do not wonder that we are so conspicuous as a drinking people. Four-fifths of all the bread made in this country is not fit to eat. In many families and hotels and restaurants, you never see, as a principle of meat, bread, made of simple yeast and flour and salt and water, and so prepared and baked as to retain the delicious taste of the grain, but only some compound of milk and sugar and lard and butter and saleratus or soda, which is not bread at all, but only a very poor and soggy kind of cake. Bread is often called "the staff of life," and if so, with such a staff as we use, no wonder that so many of our people walk crooked.

The general style of a nation depends very much upon what the citizens feed on. Rubber and walrus-meat make Esquimaux. Rice makes Hindoos and slaves. Corn and rice make Africans. A reform in the matter of bread would be a wise step in the right direction.

In general I would remark that with the best variety and the best quality of food material to be found in the world we can do that material in the worst manner. The waste of our ordinary American family would feed a French household with comfort and economy. It is an insult to God who sent us such a rich variety of His bounties to treat them as we do. God who sent cookery as one of the blessings of civilization never intended that it should be a curse. Cookery is a science and a good cook is a benefactor. Cookery is a science and a good cook is a benefactor. Cookery is a science and a good cook is a benefactor. Cookery is a science and a good cook is a benefactor.

THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS

Although elections were held on Tuesday in a number of important States the returns received at the time of this writing are far from definite with regard to several of them and comments can only be made in a general way until the results are known more in detail. By reason of local issues our advices from Massachusetts are naturally the most complete, and to judge by the remarks in the Boston papers, one would suppose that the political attitude of the State of the country is a matter of the utmost importance. The Journal and Advertiser join in proclaiming that the election of Rice by a plurality of 7,000 in Nathan Smith, and both declare it a rebuke upon the presidency of Mr. Hayes to be National affairs. Of course they drop all the "local issues" talk and proceed to stultify themselves during the last few weeks, and loudly boast that the Massachusetts has spoken the President will be able to ride rough shod over the administration and principles of the Republican Party. It is to what the result in Massachusetts really is. The returns from all but seven of the 351 towns and cities give Rice 50,126; Claflin 42,715; Lothrop 1,415; Dodge 1,471. Governor Rice, therefore, has a majority of 7,411, but it is important to bear in mind that this is what the Democratic vote would be if all the Democrats who voted for Claflin and Lothrop should vote for Rice. This is what the Democratic machine will attempt to make the people of Massachusetts believe, but it will not succeed. The Democratic vote in Massachusetts is not increased the Worcester platform; but that on the contrary the State which a year ago gave President Hayes over thirty thousand majority, on Tuesday has given a majority in the polls against him. Yet in the face of these facts that paper with remarkable consistency remarks:

> Had Massachusetts been lost it is hardly to be denied, all would have been lost for this Presidency, and it would be the universal opinion of the country that the Republican party of the nation could have only themselves to blame on the ground of which they have relied on the great State of Vermont and Maine.

Very much the same tone is taken by the Boston Herald, and both refer to the effect

BILLY PLATTER VS ANODYNE

Platter Wins the Race in Three Straight Heats—2 30 Class—A large Crowd in Attendance,

Yesterday afternoon a very large crowd assembled at the Bangor Trotting Park to witness the race between Anondyn and Billy Platter It had been spoken of for some time as a subject for conversation among the interested turf horses and yesterday great interest was manifested as to what would be the result of a trial of speed between these trotters The track was in very bad condition in front of the Judge's stand the mud was certainly two inches deep

A purse of $80 had been offered for horses that had never beaten 2 38 provided that five horses started, but as only three horses were in open it was proposed to make the race for $40 $25 $15 and 3 to 5 seconds but to this one of the drivers objected to this a new race was made, for a purse of $25, $15 to first and $10 to second with no entrance fee The horses were Dr J S Burton br Hartland Thos Philsted of Hallowell and Fred Palmer who also acted as starter

IN THE FIRST RACE

Gipsey Queen and Jone were the only contestants, and the Queen drew the pole They got the word without much scoring, and the Queen went to the front, and he broke on the back stretch and both passed the half mile pole nearly abreast Time 1 28 At the three quarter pole the Queen had opened quite a gap—time 2 12 Some good trotting was done on the home stretch th Queen passing under the wire about a length ahead—time 3 54

In the second heat the horses started off in good shape, the Queen leading at the quarter pole—time 39 At the half mile both horses were close together—time 1 27 On the last half the Queen broke and the Jone passed the three-quarter pole nearly a length ahead—time 2 12. On the home stretch the Queen did some good trotting, easily winning the heat—time 3 55

The third and last heat in the race was a repetition of the first two Both horses broke just after getting the word and the Queen led at the quarter—time 43 At the half she was still at the front—time 1 27 On the last half she made another break and Jone past the three quarter pole in advance—time 2 10, but the Queen trotted past him on the home stretch, winning the heat and race in 2 52½

PLATTER VS ANODYNE

This was the great event of the day Anodyne was the first to make an appearance with Mr Clark Soule in the sulky behind him, and in a few minutes Platter came onto the track, with Thomas McAloon in the sulky. Platter drew the pole, and after scoring four times they got the word, when Platter shot to the front and passed the quarter in 40 and the half in 1214. On the last half Anodyne made a spurt and closed up the gap a little, but Platter passed under the wire some lengths ahead—time 2 47

In the second heat Anodyne was driven by Mr. Anson Brackett, of Pittsfield. After twice scoring the horses got a good send-off, but in making the first turn Anodyne's driver got too far in and fouled with McAloon, who made the first quarter in 40 On the back side Anodyne made a spurt, but could not get past the other horse who made the half in 1194. On the last half both horses did some good trotting, but Platter won the heart easily—time 2 41½

The last heat was decidedly uninteresting as Platter went to the front at the beginning, and passed the quarter several lengths ahead—time 39, and at the half he had increased the gap—time 1 20, on the last half McAloon sent him and he came in a winner by several lengths—time 1 41½

The purse trotted for was $100—$200 to first $100 to second

Henry Hill et al vs Kendall P Forbes Action of replevin to recover possession of and settle the ownership of twenty six barrels of flour Plaintiff is a dealer in flour in Boston and claims he sent this flour to William Brosnihan in the grocery business on State street and that the flour was obtained of them by fraud

It appears that the father of the Williams Bros was formerly in trade and sold out to his sons, renting the store to them The father then went to extensive building jobs in Orono and the Williams Bros turned out to be insolvent when they ordered the flour and that they ordered it with intent never to pay for it and that this being the case the brothers obtained no legal title as against the plaintiff and hence could not give a legal title to any person

Defendant claims to prove that the purchase was made in good faith and in the ordinary course of trade that the brothers had no intention to commit a fraud upon the plaintiff that they intended to pay for the flour and that the sale between the plaintiff and the brothers did not hinder and delay the plaintiff in the collection of his debt and that they had a perfect right to sell this flour or dispose of it as they saw fit Verdict for plaintiff

In accordance with the order of Mayor Stevens Chairman of the Water Board has called a meeting of that Board for Wednesday, to take immediate steps toward the procuring of plans and proposals as The first question to be decided is whether to employ the Reservoir and Gravity system or the Holly system The Water Board will give the matter in all its details their immediate attention

CITY WATER BONDS

All our citizens will be gratified to learn that the President and Treasurer of the Franklin Company on being asked what sort of funds they preferred in payment were ready to take City Bonds as green backs Accordingly $300 000 in Lewiston Water Bonds of various denominations dated October 1877 and bearing interest at five per cent payable semi annually were paid to the Franklin Company by the company giving the city the deed of the property above named and the check for $1 0 7—that being the amount of interest accrued for the bonds between October 1st and the present date and hence returned to the city

This shows how firm the credit of the city stands In the estimation of capitalists And not the only The Franklin Company in receiving the deed of the head water rights and lands immediately passed over the $300 000 five per cent water bonds to Coe & Company together with their check for $150 000 additional It is supposed that Messrs Coe & Co will not put these bonds on the market as they are regarded as very good Document & to suit down

THE PROTECTED WORKS

The cost of our Lewiston Water Works system is estimated all told at $600 000 Of this sum $300 000 already having been raised but $ 00 000 of 5 per cent bonds remain to be negotiated The will be sold as the funds are required and will go [illegible] July next Durin [illegible] everything will be in motion and contracts completed with with the opening of spring work in the Lewiston water enterprise may be vigorously prosecuted From present [illegible] it [illegible] for about thirty dollar [illegible] Materials and labor are low and the works can be constructed at [illegible] cost than a few years since

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES.

The French models for children's and young girls' clothes are far simpler than those designed in this country, and are therefore in better taste; hence the first-class furnishing houses send abroad for the little people just as they do for those worn by their mothers. The princesse dress, all in one from the shoulders down, is still the foundation upon which various dresses are designed, but the new fancy is to introduce pleats and yokes in the waists. Carrick capes on the shoulders, and kilt skirts, or else mock kilts that do not extend to the waist, yet show at the lower edge of the over garment just as real kilts do. The finest bourettes, basket cloths, and camel's hair with silk are used in these dresses. The colors are even more quiet than formerly, the greater number being gray, drab, or moss green, with only now and then piping and sashes of blue or red silk. Dark navy blue is still worn, though not so fashionably as it has been. The trimmings are braids, buttons, and pipings.

The canty novelty for little girls, and one destined to be as popular as sailor suits were, is the Fritz blouse dress. This is a very long pleated basque or blouse, with a yoke, yet cut double-breasted, and having two rows of bullet-shaped buttons down the front. The side forms of the back extend even longer than the pleated parts, and form square pockets with flaps buttoned down upon them. The skirt, as far as is visible, is a pleated kilt, but is joined to a smoothly fitting yoke that covers the hips gaudily, as it is stylish for the child's figure to look slender. Most of the yoke and pleated waists are fastened in front. Some have no yoke in front, but are cut with double Louis Quinze vests, one of silk, the other of wool. When the plaid or belted is of silk, the belt or sash ties the pleated parts only, not the sides of the waist.

The newest princesse dresses have plaits which are really tucks, extending from the back of the neck to the top of the silk plaits, which is of silk, inserted low down across the back forms, and headed by a sash and bow. Still other princesse dresses have little vests of silk or mere plastrons of velvet or silk let in. Sometimes the upper part of the princesse dress is cut off, divided into slender pieces that are tied with a light-er shade, and made into long loops through which a wash ribbon is passed around the neck. This is worn in dark blue cashmere showing the blue lining in the loops, and a pale blue silk sash tied loosely in a large bow off long soft loops. Among the new importations is the Mignonette costume of very shaggy gray camel's-hair, with pleated (or tucked) princesse back, double-breasted front, and brown soutache for trimming. Another is the Mocovite dress of gray and red bourette, with a basque back and double-breasted princesse front. A Louis Quinze vest dress is of pale gray bourette, with light blue silk vest. Mottled fabrics are much used for these little dresses, and the effect of them having inside the skirt an pleating of a ruffle of white muslin edged with rebellion lace.

The new trimming for these dresses, square or block-shaped braid, broader than soutache and standing out squarely above the surface. Plain soutache, but wider than that used for braiding designs, is placed in parallel rows on side-pleatings, two or three rows near together designating the top of the inch-wide hem of the pleatings. On other pleatings, after they are hemmed, a deep slender scallop is described in each plait with this braid. Cuffs, or sleeves, collars, and pockets are covered by four or five rows of this braid, that is laid in scallops close together as possible. Round ball-shaped buttons—yet with eyes in the middle—have beside each of them a long slender neck button-hole made of wide soutache braid, a row of these is up each side of the princesse vest, down the two side forms of the back, across the pockets, cuffs, and collar. Mothers can also make the showy plaques that mediævalize the dresses of last season by winding rows around and around of braid, until they are as large as new silver trade dollars. These trim the back or the front as showily as the buttons of ivory, shell, or bone that are now worn, but which are not always so furnished in colors to match the trimming.

The wraps for girls are most comfortable sacque cloaks, called the Carrick, the marquise, and the Creedmoor. They are very long, half-fitting, double-breasted, and the newest ones the middle seam in the back is laid and some new models for full-dressed occasions have long side forms with the seams beg arang on the shoulders. One, two or three small round Carrick capes trim the shoulders. Most garments have straight double-breasted fronts with two rows of small buttons. The cloths used are soft and flexible yet half an inch thick. Drab and gray are favorite colors, and many of these have blue or scarlet on the wrong sides; each reversible. The cloths are sold for $7 or $8 a yard. Lovely side gray bask-beloth sacques and princesse greatcoats are shown, and among the travelers are bourette cloths with bulls of rough thread. For nurses are chosen wool coats of gray cloth merely bound at the edges with braids. The new Pilotcloths for school wear have three Carrick capes, and also three cuff-like straps across the back, rather more for ornament than to confine the back.—Harper's Bazar.

WHO MADE IT? Sir Isaac Newton, a very wise and godly man, was once examining a new and very fine globe, when a gentleman came into his study who did not believe in God, but declared the world we live in came by chance. He was much pleased with the handsome globe, and asked

"Who made it?"

"Nobody," said Sir Isaac; "it happened here."

The gentleman looked up in amazement at the answer, but he soon understood what it meant.

During the last ten years nearly a million of acres in Great Britain formerly under grain crops have been converted into pasture, most having become so paying an article to raise; but in the last Board of Trade report it is remarked that this conversion of arable land into pasture has received a check as a result of the large importations of American meat.
